DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 through 14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The term "rigid iliac rolls" is not described in the specifications.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 through 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Willner et al. US Patent No. 4,821,739 in view of Kuehnegger US Patent No. 3,945,376. Willner discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of providing rigid iliac rolls. Kuehnegger discloses an orthopedic brace (orthosis) that does provide rigid iliac rolls. Therefore it would have been obvious to modify Willner's invention by providing rigid iliac rolls in order to provide a stronger connection.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Willner et al. US Patent No. 4,821,739. As previously stated, Willner further discloses all the limitations as set forth, however Willner fails to specify the shape of the cranial border to the anterior abdominal pad. However it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided for an abdominal pad that is shaped after the lower ribs, since it has been held that a change in the shape of the element involves only routine skill in the art (see MPEP 2144.04). It would have been obvious to have provided for a abdominal pad shaped after the lower ribs in order to comfortably fit the abdominal pad to a user's anatomy.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
